BECK'S SON IS FACING CONTEMPT

Local Write-in Mixup Will Be Probed Friday

Westmoreland County Commissioners will meet with election officials form five Monessen voting precincts Friday morning in an attempt to unscramble the mix-up resulting from the Republican write-in votes in the May 21 primary election.

The Commissioners, sitting as the Board of Elections, yesterday informed The Daily Independent the Republican nominations for Monessen offices are in a "state of confusion" and that the outcome of the election will not be known "for at least another week, if then."

The confusion resulted when no Republicans filed for City offices, and nearly all the Democratic candidates waged campaigns for write-in votes.

Local election officials apparently had not received complete instructions about tabulating the write-ins, and the final tally sheets varied from precinct to precinct.

Report no Write-ins

Two precincts — the third and fifth in the First Ward — reported no write-ins although some were undoubtedly cast in both precincts.

Erroneous or misleading tally sheets were also turned in by the second, third and fourth precincts of the Second Ward.

Election count boards in Greensburg have been attempting to count the write-in votes in the Monessen election since last Thursday but have been unable to post an official count because of "many irregularities," the Commissioners announced yesterday.

The Commissioners called the meeting with the local election officials "to go over the tally sheets to determine if any discrepancies exist and if so, why they do exist," they said.

If discrepancies are discovered in sufficient number, the Commissioners said they have "no other alternative but to call for an official count."

Mayoralty Only

They said the official count will be for the mayoralty race since that is the only office they have been questioned about.

Mayor Hugo J. Parente met with the Commissioners yesterday afternoon and pointed out that he believes "there were some honest mistakes made in tabulating the votes and that it would be best for all concerned if the Commissioners would make an official count."

The Commissioners will make no decision on the official count request until after it meets with the local election officials Friday.

Unofficial sources at the courthouse at Greensburg said yesterday that votes counted thus far showed John R. Stieska leading Parente for the GOP mayoralty by 109 to 98. They pointed out, however, that five precincts are missing from this tally.

Vote Recanvass Ordered for New Kensington

GREENSBURG, Pa. (UP) — Judge Richard D. Laird ordered an unprecedented "recanvass" of votes cast in the Democratic primary at New Kensington May 21 for the nominations for Westmoreland County Common Pleas Court judge, mayor and councilman.

The recheck order was the first issued since voting machines replaced ballot boxes two years ago. The new count will be made June 12 at 10 a.m. e.d.t.

Petitions requesting the recanvass, signed by three voters from each of New Kensington's 12 voting districts, were filed last weekend.

The petitions were filed on behalf of Edward Zaleski, who lost the Democratic mayoralty nomination to Mayor Raymond E. Gardlock by 48 votes in the official count; Joseph M. Loughran who went down to defeat in the balloting for the Common Pleas court nomination, and Joseph Mennitto, unsuccessful candidate for nomination to city council.

The petitions charged that the figures shown on the official returns were "not identical" with those shown on the counters of the voting machines.

The petitioners contended that through "mistake, fraud, error or inadvertence" the votes for the candidates "were not properly tabulated in the official returns."

Because voting machines were used, Judge Laird will personally be in charge of the recanvass and it will be unnecessary to appoint a special recount board.

Young 'Pirates' Cause Damage

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Four hookey - playing pirates couldn't find the "water brakes" Monday and caused a $10,000 smashup at a Millvale boat dock.

Millvale Police Chief Alvin Grogan said the boys, 12 and 13 years old, stole a $3,200 Crist-Craft and crashed it into five other craft when they attempted to dock it.

Four of the boats, including the stolen one sank. Two others were damaged.

Grogan said two of the boys were seized as they attempted to flee the scene. They faced hearings today in Juvenile Court despite their contention they had no part in the foray.

Police sought the two other boys, believed to be students at Washington Vocational School.

Cy Johns Greeted on Return to Monessen

Monessen residents turned out in great numbers today to greet a former local citizen, Cyrus N. Johns.

The City is observing "Cy Johns Day" in honor of the man who started his long business career in Monessen and now is president of the American Chain & Cable Co., Inc. of which the Monessen Page plant is a division.

Johns started his industrial career with the Page plant immediately upon graduating from the University of Missouri in 1916. He rose through the ranks and became general manager here in 1933, and remained in that position until his appointment as vice-president-operations of ACCO with headquarters in New York.

He became president of the firm in 1951.

Today's activities for Johns started with ribbon-cutting ceremonies at the entrance at the Page plant. On hand to greet Johns were Mayor Hugo J. Parente, Charles W. Hagerstrand, Chamber of Commerce president, and other city and civic officials.

Following this ceremony, Johns and the officials toured the plant.

At noon, Johns was guest speaker at the Monessen Rotary Club, of which he is a former member.

This afternoon he toured the City with City officials and later was honor guest at a reception at Monongahela Valley Country Club.

A testimonial banquet will be held in his honor at 6:30 p. m. at the Slovak Home. Johns will be principal speaker.

1700 Visit Plant In First Few Hours

More than 1700 persons took advantage of the invitation to visit the Monessen Page plant in the first three hours of today's "open house" observance.

The plant gates were opened to the public as a feature of "Cy Johns Day." Johns is the former Monessen plant manager who is now president of the parent American Chain and Cable Co., Inc.

Bell to Convert In Brownsville Sunday, June 16

HARRISBURG (UP)—The Bell Telephone Co. will convert to dial operation in the Brownsville Exchange of Fayette County June 16, eliminating four-party line service.

The Public Utility Commission granted the conversion today after studying the company's supporting data. The firm said its 1,236 four-party residential subscribers agreed to take two-party service which will be substituted because four-party lines do not work with dial telephones.

Subscribers rates will increase from the present $2.70 a month to $3.30. The dial service and revisions and mileage charges for some 100 subscribers will give the firm an estimated $9,000 more revenue annually.

The company said it would extend the Brownsville base rate area to include sections along National Pike, Brush Run Rd. and Cox Run Rd. and developments along the communities eastern boundaries.

Released from Area Hospital

Charles David Dow, 17, of 1223 Marion Ave., Monessen, who was injured in a one-car accident which took the life of a companion, Joseph Garofalo, Jr., 17, of 1331 Reeves Ave., Monessen, on May 17, was discharged from Charleroi-Monessen Hospital yesterday.

Dow, the driver, suffered shoulder and back injuries in the one-car crash which occurred on Route 71 near Altier's Service Station.

The two were riding in Dow's MG sports car when it failed to make a curve, went up an embankment, overturned and landed wrong side up on the highway.

Garofalo died of a fractured skull and internal injuries about five hours after the tragedy.

Senate Probers Hear No Answer Some 130 Times

WASHINGTON (UP) — Chairman John L. McClellan of the Senate Rackets Committee today ordered contempt of Congress action against the son and nephew of Teamsters President Dave Beck.

McClellan ordered contempt proceedings started by the committee staff after a fruitless questioning of Dave Beck Jr. and Joseph McEvoy, Beck's nephew by marriage, on their relations with the Teamsters Union and its payroll.

Beck Jr. invoked the Fifth Amendment 130 times in refusing to tell committee investigators whether he got nearly $65,000 in salary and expenses from the union.

McEvoy invoked the Fifth Amendment 90 times on similar questions. Both men refused to say even whether they knew the senior Beck.

Young Beck had refused to say whether he knew his father—"on grounds that it may incriminate me."

Faster Than Father

Junior even refused to say whom he was named for, though Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr. (D-N.C.) said he got his name when he was "too small to be guilty of any criminal offense."

Young Dave was a faster man with the Fifth Amendment than his famous father, invoking it more than three times a minute. His father used it more than 200 times, but it took him most of three days because he made speeches between his non-answers.

The elder Beck is on the way out as Teamsters president amid charges by the committee that he used his official position to enrich himself, young Dave, and other relatives.

Young Dave began balking when committee Chairman John L. McClellan D-Ark.) asked his occupation.

"I refuse to answer on grounds that it may tend to incriminate me," junior said.

He refused to say whether he had ever received a salary from the Teamsters Union.

By the time he had racked up his first 10 refusals, young Beck had conceded only his name, address and the fact he had an attorney present.

The committee wanted to know what young Dave was doing with money from papa's Teamsters Union.

There was also the question of how his father got the nation's most far - flung Budweiser beer distributorship for young Dave's firm, and then got junior made president on the heels of some labor trouble.

Also summoned to testify was Joseph McEvoy, a nephew of the elder Beck and one-third owner of a mortgage firm through which were channeled 9 million dollars in Teamster Union investments.

Young Beck, who is in his mid-thirties, and McEvoy were two of four fugitive witnesses who ducked the committee's subpenas for

Beck to Enter Plea Today in Tax Evasion

TACOMA, Wash. (UP) — Dave Beck enters his plea today on income tax evasion charges.

The embattled president of the Teamsters Union, who has said he should not be judged until he has had his "day in court," was to have his first day before U.S. District Judge George H. Boldt.

Beck, serving his last term as president of the nation's largest union according to his own announcement, is charged with cheating the government out of $56,420 in 1950 income taxes. The federal grand jury which indicted him May 2 also charged Beck with helping prepare a fraudulent tax return in the same year for Teamsters Joint Council No. 28 Assn.

The trial of the paunchy, bull-necked labor leader is expected to begin this fall. If found guilty the maximum penalty would be five years in prison and a $10,000 fine on each count.

The first count of the indictment charges that Beck and his wife paid $15,540 on a joint return for an income of $46,398 in 1950 when he knew the tax should have been $71,960 on income of $135,226. The second count accuses him of representing Joint Council No. 28 building and maintenance expenses as $16,718 when he knew the council "had in truth expended a substantially lesser sum."

$3,513 Judgment Asked Against Fairhope Couple

Judgment of $3,513 is asked by a Charleroi concern against a Fairhope man and wife, in a suit filed yesterday in the Fayette County courts.

The action, filed by Atty. Herbert Margolis for Crown Sales Co. cites refusal of the defendants, James Pozum and his wife, Olga Pozum, to pay for services rendered.

According to the suit, the two parties entered into agreement, April 12, 1956, for repairs and other work on a five-room frame dwelling situated on property owned by Crown Sales in Fairhope.

The suit further alleges the Pozums paid $2,500 of the total costs for services amounting to $6,013, but refused to submit payment for the remainder upon request.

Belle Vernon Man Is Burned to Death

A 68-year-old man was burned to death early this morning in a shanty he occupied near the abandoned coke ovens on the Belle Vernon-Fayette City Rd.

He was identified as Andy Nigoot.

A Croatian immigrant, Nigoot, according to Police Chief Vincent Isenberg, of Belle Vernon, apparently was asleep in his self-made shack when it caught fire about 3 o'clock this morning.

When Isenberg and Belle Vernon and North Belle Vernon firemen arrived on the scene the shanty was a blazing inferno. Nigoot was trapped inside.

When firemen reached him he was already dead. He was burned beyond recognition. The shack was burned to the ground.

Howard McCrory, deputy coroner from Fayette County, said Nigoot, who did odd jobs in the Belle Vernon vicinity, is believed to have only one known survivor, a brother living somewhere in Ohio. Attempts are being made to locate him.

The dead man was taken to the McCrory Funeral Home in Fayette City.

The victim was also known as "Andy Nigat", according to McCrory

GOP May Have to Pay for Adjournment

HARRISBURG (UP)—The House Democratic leadership today indicated surrender of the manufacturers' exemption to the capital stock tax may be the price the Republican leadership will have to pay for any quick adjournment of the Legislature.

House Minority Leader Albert S. Readinger (D-Berks) said the Democrats now are in position to "dictate" final adjournment of the Legislature, now in its sixth month. The Republicans must have some votes from the minority party to enact the so-called non - preferred appropriations, which require a two-thirds majority.

"When the Republicans get around to extending the manufacturers' exemption tax — that's when the Democrats will get around to going along witht he GOP on appropriations," said Readinger.

"The manufacturers' capital stock tax is worth about $21,500,000 annually in income to the state. The exemption is slated to go into effect Jan. 1, 1958 in a move to cut industrial taxes and attract additional business into the Commonwealth.

The 22 million dollar slash in Welfare Department appropriations and its possible effect on the state's mental health program is the item giving both Republicans and Democrats most concern.

Readinger said he will not be "satisfied" until 17-million dollars of the cut Republicans made in the department budget is restored.

Senate Republicans Monday held an hours-long caucus at which the only budget item discussed was that for Welfare. Sen. GOP Leader Rowland B. Mahany said it was decided to fix minimum appropriations for the state's 17 mental institutions at $109,000,000 — about seven million dollars less than Gov. George M. Leader outlined in his budget. This will include the original funds budgeted by the Republican leadership for each institution, plus an estimate of how much will be collected by the individual hos-

Turnpike Fraud Trial Begins Today

Nine Are Charged in 'Swindle'

HARRISBURG (UP)—The first of 46 persons indicted on charges growing out of a special grand jury investigation of the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission go on trial here today in Dauphin County Court.

Nine men including former Commission Chairman Thomas J Evans, Coaldale and suspended Commissioner James F Torrance of Export, both Republicans, are charged with conspiracy in what the administration terms "one of the greatest swindles of all times" allegedly aimed at defrauding the turnpike of almost 20 million dollars.

The state charged that the Manu-Mine Research and Development Co., Reading, "falsely and maliciously" negotiated contracts with the commission for the filling of abandoned coal mines under the toll road's Northeastern Extension between Norristown and Scranton, "whereby the Turnpike Commission was charged with and defrauded of millions of dollars"

A separate indictment charged Manu-Mine president Charles W Stickler, Jr., Johnston RD 1, and the firm's vice president Clayton A Landsidle, Shillington, with "cheating by fraudulent pretenses" in the negotiation of 21 contracts, totaling $7,798,267 with the commission in connection with the work on which they allegedly made a profit of 100 per cent.

"Misconduct" Cited

Separate indictments also charged Evans and Torrance with misconduct in office for allegedly entering into contracts with Manu-Mine without requiring competitive bidding and for "corruptly" permitting the payment of "vast sums of money" to the firm.

Torrance is further charged with hampering "the proper and legitimate investigation of the contractual activities of the Manu-Mine Research and Development Co."

Others named in the conspiracy indictment and facing trial today were:

Paul J. McNeil, Mercersburg former commission finance director, John D Paul, Harrisburg, former assistant chief engineer for the commission, Theodore S Paul, Harrisburg, former commission legal counsel and E J Donnelly and G. J Hudert, of the J E Greiner Co Baltimore, former consulting engineers for the commission

District Attorney Hueltie F Dowling said the trial will run "at least three weeks"

Prosecution of the others under indictment in connection with the investigation is scheduled for the fall.

Scientists Battle Over Bans Urged Against Nuclear Tests

(Another story on Page 9)

Scientist was pitted against scientist today in a battle of words on the pros and cons of continuing tests of hydrogen bombs and other nuclear devices

Dr Linus Pauling dropped the first verbal bomb Monday with an appeal for a world ban on further nuclear tests His appeal bore the signatures of 2 000 scientists

Pauling a Nobel Prize-winning chemist and the other signatories said in a statement that continued nuclear tests would "lead to an increase in the number of seriously defective children that will be born in future generations"

Two prominent University of California scientists immediately rejected Paulings appeal

The scientists Dr K S Pitzer and Dr Joel H Hildebrand branded the appeal "unfortunate and one they could not support

Pitzer said the risks to human life from nuclear bomb tests "are very small—much smaller than the risks we take in our every day living"

The Atomic Energy Commission today flatly denied charges by Nobel Peace Prize winner Dr Albert Schweitzer that radioactive waste dumped into the Columbia River in Washington state was contaminating fish

Commission Chairman Lewis L Strauss said the amount of radioactive waste put in the river is "well within the conservative standards . . ."

"It is not the rate of concentration that is important" Strauss said "but the amount of radioactivity."

D A H Sturtevant, often called dean of American geneticists and a colleague of Pauling at California Institute of Technology believes radiation from nuclear weapons tests if continued at the present rate would produce only a fraction of the genetic harm it is possible to suffer from natural sources and from X-rays

Well-informed sources in London said today that Britain is ready to cut its present hydrogen bomb tests in half because of mounting public opinion against further tests.

Japanese government workers in Tokyo joined university students at the British Embassy today in a new demonstration against Britain's pacific nuclear tests.

Leader asked the GOP lawmakers to "look for themselves and to withhold judgment on the proposed budget cuts until they see at first-hand what is being done for thousands of Pennsylvania citizens who live in shadow and too often die in shadow"

He recommended the group visit Philadelphia State Hospital and Pennhurst State School

Other congressmen joined them in calling for review of the decision announced by Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and Defense Secretary Charles E Wilson, to turn Army Specialist William S Girard over to a Japanese court for manslaughter trial.

Chairman Thomas S Gordon (D-Ill) called hearings of his House Foreign Affairs Committee beginning June 13 to investigate the Girard case and consider demands that the "status of forces" agreement with Japan be revised or scrapped

Rep Frank T Bow (R-Ohio) who has led several unsuccessful campaigns to cancel the agreement, charged that Dulles and Wilson were sacrificing the 21-year-old soldier to "Japanese nationalism"

"I sincerely hope that Congress will now act swiftly on my resolution requiring the President to renegotiate or repudiate this agreement" he said

Bow charged that Japanese courts "do not provide the accused with the protections Americans consider essential to a fair trial

"In this instance Girard is in even greater jeopardy because of the aroused sentiments of the Japanese. They have become obviously anti-American as this case has developed"

'Blockbuster' Ruling

WASHINGTON (UP)—Legal experts today called the Supreme Court's anti-trust ruling against Du Pont and General Motors a "blockbuster" that could open the way to anti-trust suits against big newly-merged companies

The experts said the decision breathed new life into the Clayton Anti-Trust Law

Chairman Emanuel Celler (D-N Y.) of the House Judiciary Committee said the decision was "as refreshing as fresh air in the heat of summer."

The 4-2 decision — written by Justice William J. Brennan Jr., who has been a member of the court only eight months — was handed down Monday

Ruling By Minority

Three justices did not participate Thus the ruling was made by a minority of the full nine-member court.

The Clayton Act makes it an offense for a corporation to acquire stock in another if the effect may be to restrain commerce The decision against E I Du Pont de Nemours and Co and General Motors Corp stems from Du Pont's acquisition of 23 per cent of GM's stock in 1917

The court held that a suit can be started under the statute any time there is reasonable likelihood of a monopoly regardless of how long ago the stock deal occurred. It held further that the law applies to acquisition of stock in a customer corporation as well as in a competing corporation.

Brennan said Du Pont stock purchase undoubtedly gave it a "commanding position" in selling its products to General Motors

Among other actions the court —Ruled 7-1 that the government must give up criminal prosecutions in cases where it will not—on demand—back up its Communist witnesses with secret reports they have previously made to the FBI

—Ruled 7-1 that federal courts have power to make employers comply with arbitration clauses in collective bargaining agreements

—Put over until next term a constitutional test of the "membership clause" in the Smith Act, which makes it a crime to be a member knowingly of an organization dedicated to the violent overthrow of the government

Margiotti's Widow Sues Lias

$338,630 Sought in Legal Fees

WHEELING, W. Va. (UP)—The widow of the attorney who fought for years to clear William (Big Bill) Lias of his income tax and deportation woes with the federal government claimed today the one-time Wheeling gambler and his family owe $338,630 in legal fees.

Attorneys for Mrs. Denise Z. Margiotti filed two actions in federal court here Monday—one a claim for $263,630 against Lias and W. Frank W. Keefer, Lias' receiver, for fees and expenses due her late husband, trial lawyer Charles J. Margiotti. The tax battle, which continued after Margiotti's death last year, ended with Lias, owner of Wheeling Downs track and an admitted former bootlegger, owing the government $3,285,632.

Another claim was for $75,000 as fees due Margiotti for representing his wife, brother John, his son George, and daughter Antoinette in the receivership proceedings brought by the government against Wheeling Downs and other Lias holdings. Margiotti had established, during the long tax court fights, that Lias' family held shares in a number of Lias' many enterprises in the Wheeling area.

Claim Against Track

Margiotti represented Lias from 1951 until the attorney's death last August. During the course of the tax court and deportation hearings, he appeared on behalf of Lias at courts in Wheeling and Fairmont, W. Va., Washington, Richmond, Va., and Pittsburgh.

According to attorneys for the Margiotti estate, the only payment Margiotti received for his services was $25,000 in 1952 plus a small portion of more than $15,000 in expenses which the attorney paid from his own pocket.

The Margiotti estate's claim against the Lias family was against their interest in the Wheeling Downs track which the government has ordered sold at auction next week to help satisfy a portion of Lias' income tax bill. Lias owns approximately 60 per cent of the track — the portion which will go to the government—and members of his family hold the remainder.

The Margiotti attorneys broke down the fee claims this way: for receivership proceedings, $75,000; tax court proceedings $150,000; for deportation proceedings $50,000.

A year ago she lapsed into unconsciousness during a routine tonsillectomy operation. Her heart stopped and doctors massaged it until they brought her back to life. The brain was damaged by lack of oxygen and coma began.

Crisis in Syria Is Threatened

By UNITED PRESS

The leftwing Syrian government of Premier Sabri El Assali has fought off another attempt by opposition leaders to unseat it, Damascus dispatches reported today.

Some 30 opposition members of parliament announced their intention to resign in hopes of forcing a crisis, but the resignations were not made formally. Some 15 other deputies would have joined them in the walkout.

The threatened mass resignations followed a clash in the Syrian parliament last Saturday between Populist Party Leader Rushdi Kikhia and powerful Communist Party Deputy Khaled Bakdash.

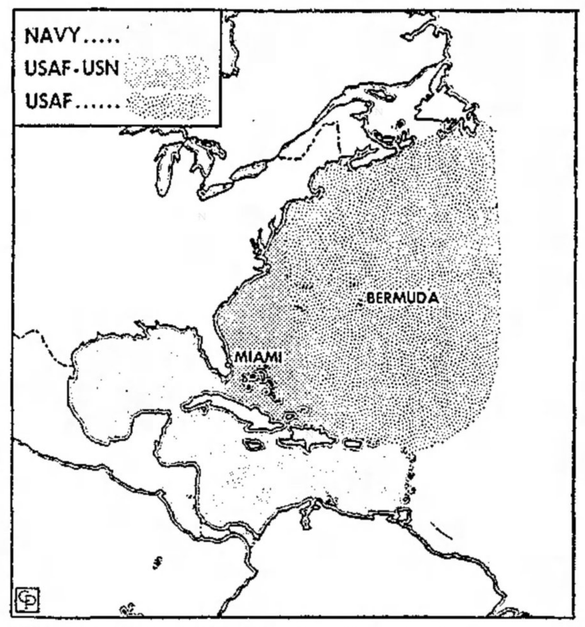
Kikhia Resigns

Kikhia resigned and 30 members of the Populist Party announced they would follow him. Some 13 constitutional deputies and two independents were expected to join them, but only Kikhia's resignation was formal.

Several previous attempts to oust the pro-Soviet government have failed despite Syria's growing isolation in the Arab world.

In Jerusalem Israeli Premier David Ben-Gurion won a vote of confidence Monday night on Israel's foreign policy and its adherence to the Eisenhower Doctrine.

The main vote came on acceptance of Ben-Gurion's report accepting a watered down version of the doctrine. The vote was 59-5, with 39 abstentions. The rebellious Ahdut Avoda and Mapam parties abstained although members of the government; had they voted against the resolution a cabinet crisis would have developed.



HERE'S OUR HURRICANE GUARD — Here are the three areas being patrolled by U. S. forces to get advance warning of hurricanes. The Air Forces operates out of Kindley Air Force Base on Bermuda. All warnings go to the Joint Hurricane Warning center in Miami, Fla., where USAF, Navy and Weather bureau experts evaluate and act upon them. When a hurricane is reported, the Miami center goes on a 24-hour watch, keeps sending information. Season dates from June 1.

House GOP Accepts Platform Invitation

WASHINGTON (UP) — House Republicans accepted happily today President Eisenhower's invitation to stand with him on their party's 1956 platform.

Some of them reserved the right, however, to say just which planks they will mount. The fact is, they discovered, the GOP platform is big enough to support all factions.

Party "liberals" pointed to its commitments on federal aid for schools, extension of the minimum wage and other expansions of health, education and welfare programs.

The "conservative" wing was just as agile at climbing aboard platform planks promising "further reductions" in government spending, payment on the national debt and lower taxes.

Members who hadn't looked at the document since its adoption last year by the Republican convention sent out for copies in the wake of Eisenhower's assertion Monday he stands on the platform "100 per cent."

The President, at a harmony lunch with GOP House members at the capitol, invited their help in putting the platform pledges into effect. He said any who responded could count on an ally in him.

Members generally interpreted the President's remarks as a plea for GOP support for the more liberal planks of the platform and of his program.

House Republican Leader Joseph W. Martin Jr. (Mass.), who picked up the $284.11 check for Monday's box lunch, pronounced the party a complete success.

He conceded no "conversions" took place but said none was sought. He said the President understands fully that not every Republican member of Congress can support every point in the party platform.

Fire Insurance Rate Boosts Are Fought

PHILADELPHIA (UP) —Deputy City Solicitor Levy Anderson said Monday that rate increases sought by fire insurance companies should be turned down by the state Insurance Commission.

Anderson, summing up the city's case before Insurance Commissioner Francis R. Smith, said insurance representatives failed to submit "credible" figures to support the proposed 20 per cent increase.

Opposition to the increases, which would amount to some $1,500,000 annually on new policies, was made by officials of various cities throughout the state, including Mayor David Lawrence of Pittsburgh.

Anderson also called for a full-scale investigation of fire insurance company practices in Pennsylvania.

He suggested looking into the possibility of revising of the Insurance Act of 1947 to get rid of the "clandestine aspects which surround rate changes." He said it was "unfair" to the public and that no other "state-regulated industry receives such favored treatment and neither should the insurance industry."

Secrecy in rate changes was defended by Phillip Sterling, attorney for the insurance companies. He said the secrecy provision in the law was designed to prevent large scale cancellations of policies when new rates were sought. He added that this was in the interest of both the policyholder and the insurance companies seeking the increase.

The Commission must rule on the rate proposal by the end of June or the increases automatically go into effect July 15. Either the city or the insurance companies may appeal an adverse decision to Dauphin County Common Pleas Court.

He'll Have to Go to Work Or Else to Jail

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Robert Marshbank, 36, of Greensburg, Pa. who claims "I never worked a day in my life," must change his way of living or go to jail.

Judge William F. Cercone gave Marshbank the choice of going to work or going to jail Monday when Marshbank pleaded guilty to passing worthless checks, defrauding an innkeeper and false pretense.

Asked about his occupation, Marshbank said he never worked because "I got an inheritance from my father and when that was used up, I lived on borrowed money and by passing checks."

The judge learned that the defendant can have a job in Altoona with a milk company. He ordered him to take it and pay off the court costs and make restitution of $195 in checks within three months.

Counterfeit Ring Broken Up by Secret Service

PITTSBURGH (UP) — A West Virginia fugitive, who had $25,000 in bogus currency when arrested by Secret Service agents here, was unable to raise $2,500 in good money today to meet his bond on a counterfeiting charge.

Federal agents said the arrest of Carl B. Robey, 35, on the street near his East Liberty apartment hideout Monday completed the roundup of a ring which began operations with about $45,000 in bogus $1 and $5 bills.

Robey, who escaped from the Monongalia County jail at Fairmont, W.Va., 18 months ago, was implicated by Harry A. Waite, identified as the printer for the counterfeiters. Waite and two other members were arrested in Fairmont last April.

Waite had admitted making $45,000 of the phony money, and Robey was supposed to have had about $35,000 of it.

Robey proved to be a willing defendant when arrested. He told U.S. Commissioner Alex McNaugher at a hearing: "I want to plead guilty and get it over as soon as I can."

Polish Surplus Bill Debated in House

WASHINGTON (UP) — The House today plunged into a fight over an administration proposal to ship 95 million dollars in farm and other goods to Communist Poland.

The fight specifically was over a Senate - passed bill that would authorize the government to sell 1 billion dollars worth of farm surplus to friendly countries for foreign currencies. It also would permit donation of 300 million dollars worth of farm surpluses to needy peoples abroad.

What bothered some congressmen was that the State Department:

—Has ruled that Poland is a "friendly nation" no longer under Moscow domination.

—Has already arranged for exchange of 50 million dollars worth of surplus wheat and cotton for Polish currency.

Other congressional news:

Appropriations — The Senate gave final congressional action to a $597,790,225 money bill to operate the Commerce Department in fiscal 1958. The bill was sent to the White House shorn of $273,733,775 originally requested by President Eisenhower.

FBI Files—Congressmen called for swift action to protect the secret files of the Federal Bureau of Investigation. The Supreme Court ruled the government must abandon criminal prosecutions in cases where it does not want to produce secret FBI reports by witnesses it puts on the stand.

Civil Rights — The Senate Judiciary Committee approved 7-3 a trial-by-jury amendment to the administration's civil rights program. It would grant trial by jury to persons charged with violating federal court injunctions forbidding interference with the right to vote.

Veterans—The Senate passed a bill to consolidate and simplify laws governing veterans' compensation, pension and burial benefits. The bill was returned to the House for approval of minor amendments.

$4,200 Robbed From Stroller

PITTSBURGH (UP)—A Homewood businessman, was robbed of $4,200 Monday night in a streetside holdup.

While an accomplice waited in a stolen automobile, a young thief approached T. W. Clements and ordered "Come with me . . . I got a gun."

The two walked together a short distance. Clements told police, then the robber grabbed four money sacks and ran to the waiting car.

Clements said the money, cash and $700 in checks, had been paid at an office of the Homewood Chamber of Commerce. He was taking it to a night depository, he told officers.

PUC Members May Get Pay Raise

HARRISBURG (UP)—The House today received Senate approved legislation to increase the salaries of Public Utility Commissioners by $5,000 annually.

The chairman would receive $20,000 and the other commissioners $19,000 a year if the House agrees and Gov. George M. Leader signs the measure.

The Senate okayed the bill by a 47-2 vote Monday night.

Youth Is Killed

PITTSBURGH (UP) — James Knox, 9, Homewood, was killed Monday when struck by a car operated by Mrs. Lois Fitzmaurice, 35, Penn Hills, police reported.

Begin Probe of German Army Recruits' Death

KEMPTEN, Germany (UP) — Federal Defense Minister Franz Josef Strauss today took over personal command of the investigation into the deaths of 15 German army recruits in a death march into the swirling Iller River.

Strauss drove here from Rott Am Inn where he is to be married later today.

German newspapers were quick to note the similarity to the death march at the U.S. Marine Corps Parris Island base 14 months ago when six recruits died in a swamp during a night march.

Hundreds of civilian volunteers joined Red Cross workers and troops in a night-long search of the Iller under the glow of army searchlights mounted on a bridge 50 yards from the death spot where 15 men of a 34-man group were swept to their death.

Sgt. Peter Julitz, who ordered the paratrooper recruits into the chill waters of the Iller River with the words "imagine the bridge has been blown up. Follow me to the other side" was under arrest.

The Iller, a tributary of the Danube, is about 30 to 50 yards wide at the point and about 3 feet deep. The recruits, wearing full battle gear, lost their footing when their rubber - soled shoes slipped on the rocks and they were swept into deep water.

Eighteen recruits scrambled to safety. A 19th man who reached shore died later.

Strike Halts Big Construction

PITTSBURGH (UP) — A strike by plumbers demanding a 50-cents-an-hour boost in their $3.42½-an-hour wage rate hit a number of multi-million dollar construction projects in Pittsburgh and Allegheny County today.

The walkout began Monday morning after Plumbers Union Local 27's contract with the Plumbing Contractors Assn. expired, but the 550 striking members did not set up picketlines. This permitted other AFL-CIO trade crafts to continue working at such projects as the Allegheny County Sanitary Authority sewers, the Allegheny County Institution District Hospital, the Bell Telephone Building, and others.

Socialistic State Near, Economist Is Predicting

CINCINNATI, Ohio (UP)—A college economist said today the American socialistic state predicted by Soviet party boss Nikita S. Khrushchev may be just around the corner.

Prof. Harold B. Wess of American University said unless "courageous men of stature" turn the tide against socialism the nation "inevitably" will drift into a government-regulated economy.

Khrushchev prophesized in a television interview for Americans that "your grandchildren will live under socialism." He said they "will not understand how their grandparents did not understand the progressive nature of a socialist society."

Almost To Brink

Wess, a former vice president of R.H. Macy & Co., told the Appliance Manufacturers Institute in a prepared speech that "if the trend here is not changed or stopped, it must inevitably bring us also to the brink, if not directly into, socialism and an economic system abhorrent to freedom loving Americans."

"We are rapidly approaching the hour of decision," he said. "It will take many courageous men of stature who would 'rather be right than president' to turn this tide."

The business and marketing professor placed the blame for the socialistic "trend" on labor unions, "confiscatory" taxes and the failure of government leaders to adopt anti - inflationary measures.

Attacks Union Practices

Wess denied he is "anti-labor" but he devoted his sharpest attacks to union practices. He said "featherbedding and restrictive practices by labor unions sap the great productive power of our country and will continue to do so unless this trend is reversed." He asked:

"What good will it do labor to get higher and higher wages, shorter and shorter hours, more and more restrictive and featherbedding practices if in the end union members become the victims of labor dictators, or find themselves paid with a dollar that is almost worthless?"

He said unless labor leaders drop the tactics of the depression and reverse the trend of less work for more money "we may achieve full employment in a decaying economy."

'Cy Johns Day'

MONESSEN today is taking time out to salute a former citizen who launched a business career in this community which has seen him rise to the top of one of its principal industries. Referring, of course, to Cyrus N. "Cy" Johns, president of American Chain & Cable Co., whose Page Division is Monessen's second largest employer.

This gesture is typical of the warm friendliness which has always been characteristic of Monessen, and we have no doubt that Mr. Johns will go back to his responsibilities refreshed by this contact with the scenes and friends of the 23 busy years which he spent here.

We hope he will also carry away a sense of the appreciation Monessen feels for the contribution which the Page Division makes to the economy of this city and of the Monongahela Valley neighborhood.

More than ever before, we believe, the public in communities where the mass employment industries are located has come to recognize the value of the smaller manufacturing operations. And the long and, we trust, happy experience of the Page Division in Monessen is living testimony to the Valley's claim to possess a climate as favorable to concerns which number their employes in the hundreds as to those employing thousands.

We join in bidding Mr. Johns a cordial return. Although he cannot really have lost touch with Monessen, his old neighbors will enjoy having his undivided attention for a day in which to assure him of their regard both of himself and of the great industrial organization which he heads.

Khrushchev on TV

THE TELEVISED interview with Nikita Khrushchev, the Soviet leader, by a panel of American correspondents in Moscow seemed to be of value chiefly as a journalistic stunt. We doubt that it has made much of a contribution to the American public's understanding of anything, except maybe of Khrushchev.

On topics of immediate concern, such as disarmament and the reunification of Germany, Khrushchev told the TV audience nothing that it did not already know about the Soviet position. And what the Soviet representatives actually do at the London disarmament conference will be of infinitely greater interest than anything Khrushchev said on the TV program.

As to his forecast that the United States one day will be a "socialist" country like Russia, every American schoolboy knows that the system now prevailing in the Soviet Union has little or no relation to socialism. There isn't a respectable socialist in the world who approves of what now goes by that name in Russia.

The Soviet system is a dictatorship as oppressive as anything the Russians knew under the czars. And from an international point of view, this dictatorship has to be equated with Nazism.

Whether or not the American people some day choose to embrace a form of socialism is an academic question. A far more immediate problem for us and for other free men is to make sure that Khrushchev and his fellow conspirators do not do what Hitler failed to do.

Voters Aroused

THE OFFICIAL returns from the Democratic primary in Westmoreland County bolster the belief expressed here before that more Democratic voters than ever are prepared to vote against the hand-picked candidates of the Democratic courthouse machine.

This independent sentiment was most graphically expressed by the defeat of Clerk of Courts Raymond H. Turner by an independent candidate, Howard M. Bricker. Although Mr. Bricker has been a conscientious public official in the sheriff's office for many years, it is unquestionably true that he owes [illegible] to the fact that the Democratic voters were expressing resentment against his opponent's father, who is one of the bosses of the courthouse machine.

[illegible] is written all over the returns in the judgeship contest, too. Although the machine's candidates, Judge Bauer and Mr. Scalco, were nominated, one of them surely would have been defeated had not the opposition been divided among four other candidates [illegible] two independent Democrats.

All [illegible] means is that the courthouse [illegible] serious trouble provided the independent voters of both parties can find ways of concentrating their strength in the November fall. This will take some hard work, to be sure, but the chance of loosening the [illegible] machine's politics on the county [illegible]

Merry-Go-Round—

Morse Raps Administration 'Morality'

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Republican senators aren't advertising it, but before they decided to reprove Sen Wayne Morse of Oregon for comparing President Eisenhower with Dave Beck, they held a Policy Committee meeting. The White House had phoned to ask that Morse be answered, and leading GOP senators met to decide what to do

Mr. Pearson

Among others, they queried Sen. Alexander Wiley of Wisconsin, stanch supporter of Ike's foreign policy.

"Do you think I'm crazy?" replied Wiley, when it was suggested that he make a speech. "You're a bunch of jackasses. You're just giving Morse an opening. He'll hang this right around your neck."

True to Wiley's prediction, Morse has now scheduled one full-dress Senate speech a week on "the morality of the Eisenhower administration."

Vacation Lands

With summer vacations looming for millions of Americans, Congressman Earl Chudoff, Philadelphia Democrat, is starting a congressional probe of Eisenhower policy regarding recreation spots.

Specifically he is looking into the fact that areas around the big dams and reservoirs owned by Uncle Sam are no longer set aside for recreational purposes, but kept by private interests.

Harold Ickes, the old Curmudgeon who served as Roosevelt's Secretary of the Interior, and Oscar Chapman, his successor under Truman, acquired the land around federal waterways. Naturally when the government builds a dam or improves a waterway the land around it becomes more valuable, and the federal government took advantage of this increase.

Chudoff's preliminary probe, however, has found that on Oct. 12, 1953, nine months after Ike took office, this policy was changed.

He has also discovered that the U. S. Chamber of Commerce was the prime instigator of the change. It claimed that the public playgrounds around dams and reservoirs were "socialistic."

From October 1953, therefore, the Bureau of Reclamation and the Army engineers have not purchased the land, but acquired "flowage easements" through land surrounding dams and reservoirs. Actually these easements cost about as much as the land would cost the taxpayers; little money was saved.

But here has been the result when it comes to vacation lands for the American public.

Three big federal reservoirs are under construction: Garrison in North Dakota, Fort Randall in South Dakota, and Oahe, which straddles the border between North and South Dakota. In all three cases the Army has been barred from acquiring title to surrounding land for use by the public.

Another result of the policy has been a flood of demands from former property owners who sold land to the government prior to 1953.

They now want to buy their land back at bargain prices. Bills for this purpose have been introduced in Congress by Reps. Frank Ikard (D., Tex.) and Phil Landrum (D., Ga.); also by Sens. Henry Dworshak (R., Ida.) and Strom Thurmond (D., S. C.).

Dominican-Go-Round

Congressman Brooks Hays of Arkansas today begins closed-door hearings on the bloody operations of the bloody dictator of the Dominican Republic. Here are some tips he might probe regarding a country founded on terror which has had the blessing of certain high-placed Americans. . . . The dictator himself is suave, charming, a master showman. He has beaten his daughter Angeleta so badly that she has required plastic surgery. His spies are everywhere. John Frank, the ex-FBI man now indicted by a federal grand jury, wired Trujillo's palace for sound so the dictator could listen to every word spoken in every room. . . . General Espaillat, former Dominican consul in New York, now on the lam, is the man the State Department wants returned to the U. S. A. for questioning in the murder of Columbia University Professor Jesus deGalindez. Espaillat is one of the rising young men among Trujillo's conspirators. The seven Dominicans who robbed the Royal Bank of Canada in Santiago could tell you now Espaillat operates if they were alive to tell the story. . . . Manuel de Moya, the ambassador who has arrived to become ambassador to the U. S. A. but whom the State Department doesn't want as ambassador, has handled many of Trujillo's large investments in the United States. His pay is high and he earns it. . . . Hector Trujillo, brother of the dictator, is official president of the Dominican Republic. His title is a paper one. He lives with his mo[illegible] and is very reli[illegible] a devout acquaintance [illegible] of ex-Marine sergeant who helps run the island.

Bomb Race Versus Human Race

From Washington—

Democrats' Position Inconsistent

By ROSCOE DRUMMOND

In cutting the administration's defense budget the Democrats in Congress are putting themselves in a morally, politically and intellectually indefensible position from which slick argument will not extricate them.

Mr. Drummond

The voters will catch up with them sooner or later.

It's difficult to believe that a donkey, even with only one ear to the ground, could get itself into this distorted posture; but it has, and you can see what's happened if you look at it from these three angles:

1. One year ago this month the Democrats in Congress forced the administration to accept a $900,000,000 higher defense appropriation than President Eisenhower and Secretary of Defense Wilson felt necessary or could be economically expended.

2. During the presidential campaign last fall and regularly now for several months from the floor of Congress the Democrats have been telling the country — and telling themselves — that the Eisenhower foreign policy is badly conceived, badly managed, is falling to pieces, that the world situation is deteriorating, that the danger of war grows.

3. In the House of Representatives this past week the Democrats voted against restoring even a modest 25 per cent of the recent severe cuts in defense by 203 to 11, the Republicans in favor or restoring the cuts by 140 to 39.

Policy Shifts

The Democrats can't have it both ways. You can fool some of the people some of the time . . . etc. But they can't count on confusing the public indefinitely.

If the Democrats were right a year ago in forcing the President to increase defense spending and are right in contending that the world situation is worse than ever, then their action in voting last week to cut the defense budget below the administration's request is illogical, inconsistent, reckless and partisan politics of the most irresponsible kind.

On the other hand, if the Democrats are wise and right in thinking it is not dangerous to cut the defense budget right now, then by all reason and honor they ought to admit that they erred grievously in pushing it up $900,000,000 a year ago and ought to retract their assertions that the free world is worse off and admit that prospects for a better peace are improving.

Give the Democrats their own premises and only one conclusion is possible: either their words are unsupportable or their actions are unsupportable because they are inconsistent with each other.

West Stronger

It is not necessary to accept as rational the Democratic premise that the free world is losing the cold war or as wise the Democratic action that now is the time to cut back our defenses.

It seems to me that the developments of the past six months indicate that the West is improving its position vis-a-vis Russia and that the initiative in the cold war is either within our hands or within our reach. I refer to these developments:

—Khrushchev has been unable to woo Tito back into the Soviet fold.

—As illustrated by what has happened in Poland, the Soviets have lost much of their control of the Eastern Europe satellite world.

—Eastern Europe's 1,000,000 "satellite" troops are today a source of weakness, not a source of strength, to Moscow.

—The position in the Middle East is more stable.

The reorganization of Soviet industry was necessary not because things were going as planned but because they were not going as planned.

—For the first time since the end of World War II the Kremlin is making signs of being seriously interested in a disarmament agreement.

To cut the President's defense recommendations on the Democratic theory that the Eisenhower foreign policy is weakening the West just doesn't make sense.

To cut the President's defense budget and the means of waging the peace at the very time when the initiative in the cold war is moving our way doesn't even make good nonsense.

National Affairs—

Republicans Having Bad Money Trouble

By LYLE C. WILSON

WASHINGTON (UP) — This is the season for the Republicans to have money trouble, and bad trouble it is.

In its strongest form the story is that the Republican National Committee is broke, or near it, and cannot raise more money.

Mr. Wilson

Others claim the situation is bad enough, but not that bad. Something seems to be persuading contributors not to contribute. It is freely conceded that the committee is looking for a finance chairman and may get its man this week.

Some party men blame President Eisenhower for the money drought. They believe the flow of Republican political funds was slowed or stopped because likely contributors object to Eisenhower's big 1958 spending program and to what sometimes is called his new liberalism. That, in turn, sometimes is called modern Republicanism.

Answer This Week?

What the Republicans can do about party finances may develop this week in political huddles here. It has been suggested that the Senate and House Republican campaign committees cut loose from the National Committee. The custom has been for the two congressional committees and the National Committee to raise funds jointly, a kind of political united fund.

For the two congressional campaign committees to go off on their own fund-raising campaigns would have the appearance of a monumental vote of no confidence in Eisenhower.

Moreover, if the congressional committees proved capable of getting contributions while the National Committee floundered, the no confidence aspect of the situation would be even more emphatic. It would mean that the Republican Party in Congress could outdraw the Republican Party in the White House — outdraw, at least, among campaign contributors who count.

Two Key Men

Sen. Andrew F. Schoeppel (Kan) is chairman of the Senate Republican Campaign Committee. Rep. Richard M. Simpson (Pa.) chairs the Republican Congressional Campaign Committee with special responsibilities for electing members of the House.

These two are regular Republicans, strong party men and good politicians. They will not lightly go off on their own to raise money. All the more significant, therefore, would be such action on their part if Schoeppel and Simpson decided finally it had to be done.

Back—there in 1956 the campaign funds rolled in. The National Committee divided the loot and everybody was comparatively happy. Just maybe, however, too much of that money was spent on electing Eisenhower and not enough on helping Republican candidates for the Senate and the House, which remained Democratic after the returns were in.

Behind The News—

Baghdad Alliance Is Stronger than Ever

By CHARLES M. McCANN

The Baghdad Treaty against Communist penetration in the Middle East has made a remarkable comeback.

In fact, the five-country alliance is stronger and potentially more important now than it ever had been since it was signed in Baghdad, Iran, in February, 1955.

Mr. McCann

It started out as purely a "paper pact" — the loosest of all the free-world alliances against Communist aggression.

It was threatened with a complete break-up after the British-French invasion of the Suez Canal Zone last November.

But the meeting of the Baghdad Treaty members which started in Karachi, Pakistan, Monday, appears to mark a turning point which will strengthen Allied ties in the whole area of Asia from Turkey to Pakistan.

U.S. A Sponsor

The Baghdad Treaty members are Turkey, Iraq, Iran, Pakistan and Great Britain.

The United States, which sponsored the treaty, refused to join it. At that time, the Eisenhower administration did not want to involve itself so closely in Middle Eastern affairs.

The fact that all its members but Britain are Moslem nations, and that Iraq is a member of the nine-nation Arab League, nearly caused the break-up of the pact when Britain joined France in the canal invasion.

The four Moslem members boycotted Britain, and held meetings without inviting Britain to take part.

But Britain is back at the current Karachi meeting. The United States, which had limited its part to being represented by an observer and to joining the economic committee of the pact, formally joined the military committee at Monday's opening meeting. That means that except for admitting it, the United States is now practically a full member of the pact.

Formal Military Setup

The delegates are discussing the formation of a formal military set-up, which will be aimed at coordinating their defense organizations.

It is possible that Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi may be named before long as supreme commander of the treaty organization.

It is possible also that within the next few months Jordan may be invited again to join the treaty. This time, after the victory of young King Hussein over his pro-Egyptian, pro-Russian political enemies, he may find it possible to accept.

If the present trend in the Middle East continues, it is just possible also that pro-Western Saudi Arabia and Lebanon may be brought into it.

The Woman's View—

Johnny CAN Read

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK, (UP) — A Missouri teacher, named schoolmarm of the year, says we make too much to-do about Johnny's reading problems.

"Johnny CAN read," said Mrs. Mary Field Schwarz. "And we are teaching the children the three R's, despite all reports otherwise.

Gay Pauley

Mrs. Schwarz, a pretty, auburn-haired woman of 38 and the mother of a 15-year-old boy, teaches 36 third-graders in Independence, President Truman's home town.

Her classroom is a once-condemned church renovated to accommodate the overflow of pupils from Bristol School, Independence.

Shared 1957 Title

She shared the 1957 "teacher of the year" title with Guy Bizzell, a high school speech and English instructor in Austin, Tex. The award is made each year by the U.S. Office of Education and McCall's Magazine, which choose from nominations by state departments of education. This is the first year teachers have shared it.

Both winners received trips to Washington, where they called on President Eisenhower and Vice President Nixon.

Mrs. Schwarz came on to Manhattan for a four-day visit, but left her husband, an electronics engineer, and son to run the house.

"Children start learning to read from the time they can focus on symbols," said Mrs. Schwarz. "Some of my third graders have a seventh and eighth grade reading ability."

She conceded that some youngsters reach high school still slow with the three R's. "I don't know why," she said. "It may be the child. It may be the teacher's faulty methods."

No Way Unorthodox

Her own teaching is in no way unorthodox — "I've never figured out what progressive education is anyway," she said.

"But I do know that with the old-fashioned basics we must provide children with much more. A child's whole horizon is broader today. Teaching cannot stand still.

The schoolmarm of 1957 believes the teacher shortage and overcrowded classrooms are just two of education's problems.

"Our biggest failure is in neglect of the bright child," said Mrs. Schwarz. "We've done so much to help the retarded, and let the bright ones drift along. Yet they are our future scientists, inventors, writers, leaders."

MHS 1918-19 Team to Gather Tonight

Monessen High's first WPIAL championship basketball team — the 1918-19 edition — will get together tonight in West Newton to honor their coach Stewart Townsend who is retiring as a schoolman. Dr. James Hutchinson, a city dentist, helped to gather the team together for the Townsend testimonial banquet. "Jack Reed, Bill (Chink) Allison, Cecil Conn and myself will be there," reports Dr. Hutchinson. "Kemp Conn has just been released from the hospital so he might not be able to make it. One of our three substitutes, Frank Bumbaugh, will be away on business and the two other reserves — Chuck Lewis and Wallace Hood — are deceased."

* * *

Dr. Hutchinson points out that every member of that championship team went on to college. Today Reed is with the coke plant in Clairton; Allison is in the engineering department at Pittsburgh Steel; Kemp Conn has a real estate agency in Pt. Marion; Cecil Conn is a mortician; and Bumbaugh is an executive with Jones and Laughlin . . . Incidentally, the Conn boys played three years of high school ball at Pt. Marion. In those days, Pt. Marion had only a three-year course. When the fine MHS team of 1917-18 (unofficial WPIAL champions) knocked off the Pointers, the Conns decided to finish their high school career in Monessen.

Workers 'Dolling Up' City Playgrounds

Workers are busy "dolling up" city playgrounds for the summer recreation season which will open formally on June 10. Frederic Feldman, special events director, has taken charge until a successor is named to the resigned George Nicksich . . . Ed Kikla, the Monongahela High baseball standout, has accepted a sports scholarship to Penn State. The Nittany Lions have always emphasized varsity baseball in their athletic program . . . Speaking of baseball scholarships, Carl Witmyer, the Charleroi mound ace, may wind up at Miami of Fla. The coach there is Jimmy Foxx, the former home-run hitting Hall of Famer.

* * *

Dean Cheesebrough, the former Monessen High baseballer who saw duty in the minor leagues for a spell, has completed his work at California Teachers and hopes to land a teaching job. Dean, who also served as public address announcer for Midget League games last season, is currently playing for the Charleroi Merchants in the Mon Valley Baseball League . . . Monongahela's junior soccer team staged a tag day last weekend to raise money for the trip to Philadelphia for the eastern finals in Junior Cup play . . . Richard Mongelluzzo, basketballer at Donora High, has won an academic scholarship to Duquesne University.

District Boys Headed for Miami U.

Headed for Miami on football scholarships are Ed Kensky, Clairton; Joe Guido and John Marsillo, Ambridge, and Wayne Nail, Altoona . . . Incidentally Charleroi businessman Leo Guttman is the Miami "contact" hereabouts . . . Gary Milliken, fine Waynesburg High basketballer, was named to the annual Wigwam Wiseman scholastic basketball team the other day. He led Greene county in scoring last season with 329 points . . . Speaking of Waynesburg, vandals caused considerable damage at the new Little League field in the community . . . In Brownsville, the Junior Chamber of Commerce honored the outstanding high school athlete in each varsity sport during a dinner the other night.

Monessen Boys Rap Five Homers in Easy MVL Conquest

The Monessen Ozarks are back on the beam again.

They came out of their long slump yesterday by swamping New Eagle, 12-3, in typical Ozark fashion. No less than five homers bounced off of Monessen bats in the Mon Valley League tussle at Ninth Street Park.

Pappy Johnson and Carl Crawley each stroked two round trippers. And Mike Young, who was released by Van Voorhis earlier in the week, made his debut for the Ozarks with a homer and single, good enough to drive in three runs.

The long distance clouting boosted the Ozarks homer output this season to 23 in 12 games.

Bill Mitnick toiled the distance for the Ozarks, tossing a five hitter. He fanned eight and was in control all the way except for a shaky third inning when the visitors scored all of their runs.

New Eagle Scores

The New Eagle rally was touched off when Bob Gondos singled and stole second. Joe Reale bingled him home. Jess Leach singled Reale to third. Lou Sepe's short fly fell safely in back of short and two more runs tallied.

From then on, Mitnick didn't allow a hit.

The Ozarks regained the lead in a hurry. Mitnick singled, Tom Rotheram made base on an error and Bob Mastracci walked to load the sacks. One run tagged up on Mel Clickovich's fly to deep center.

Young then parked his homer to put the Ozarks ahead, 4-3. Johnson followed with another roundtripper.

In the fifth Crawley slapped his homer after Clickovich had doubled and Young had walked.

More Homers

Homers gave the Ozarks four more runs in the sixth.

Joe Arrigo reached first on an error and Young singled. Johnson chased them across with a homer. Crawley slammed a tremendous home run over the right center field fence to end the scoring in impressive fashion.

PONY League Set Tomorrow

Twin Bill Scheduled At Ninth St.

The 1957 Monessen PONY League season will open tomorrow with a twin bill attraction at Ninth Street Park.

The Lions will meet the Ravens while CIO will take on the Eagles. The first tussle will begin at 5 p. m.

PONY League officials plan a brief ceremony to start off the 1957 festivities. A city dignitary will be asked to toss out the first ball.

The four competing teams this season will be managed by Frank Arnoldi (Lions Club). William Yobe (Eagles), Nick Cullen (Ravens); and Angelo Leone (Local 1229).

League officials report one rule change, as follows for 1957:

New Rule

"A pitcher shall not be allowed to pitch in more than ten innings in any one calendar week. (In local league play a pitcher may not pitch in successive games played by his team after he has retired more than six batters. Pitching at least one ball to the next batter after retiring six men will make the pitcher ineligible to pitch in the next game played by his team."

Outside of that change, the rules this season will be the same as last.

As usual, all PONY League tussles in Monessen will be played at Ninth Street Park.

Twin bills are also scheduled for Thursday and Friday of this week.

On Thursday, the Eagles will meet the Lions and Ravens will take on CIO.

The Friday card will pair the Eagles against the Ravens and Lions against CIO.

Paces Elks

Thomas Maatta paced the Elks to their win by slamming a home run and two doubles. Ed Kilpela chipped in with two doubles and a single while Larry Davis stroked three singles. Harry Junk collected two doubles for the Lions.

Claude Garry slammed a double and single to pace the Legion over CIO. High man for the losers was Del Rosso with a triple and single.

The murderous VFW assault was paced by Dick Steele who collected two doubles and three singles in five trips to the plate. Bob Beveridge had a double and two singles in three appearances.

For the Ravens, Pascarella stroked a double and two singles.

Barry Yagodich led Page Local to its close win by collecting two doubles. Eric Crabtree and Kelemen each had a triple and single. For the losers, Bill Hughes had two of their three hits, one a double.

To Honor Retiring S. S. Townsend at Banquet Tonight

S. S. Townsend's coaching career will end "officially" tonight, 42 years after he organized Monessen High School's first basketball team.

"Towney", as he is known in sports circles, will be guest of honor at a testimonial banquet in his behalf at the Lutheran Parish House in West Newton. That event will close an illustrious coaching career.

He has just retired as West Newton High's principal-basketball coach.

Townsend started his career in education back in 1915 when he joined the Monessen High faculty. He was both football and basketball coach at MHS until 1923 when he became faculty-manager of athletics at Allegheny College.

Townsend's success at Monessen was remarkable. His football teams were immediately the talk of the valley. He employed a tricky side-center and used as many as nine different formations.

First Cage Team

It was Townsend who organized Monessen's first basketball team in 1915. The following year, his quint won the Mon Valley title. The next season, the Greyhounds were recognized as "unofficial" WPIAL champions and in 1919 they made it "official."

Many members of those early Monessen teams are expected for tonight's affair.

Of course the bulk of the banquet crowd will be made up of West Newton High graduates, where Townsend has served since the early thirties.

Dr. Rufus Goehring and Police Chief Eugene Letterio of West Newton made the banquet preparations.

Fayette City Raps West Newton, 17-3

Fayette City moved back into a first place tie in the Mon Valley League standings last night by slamming West Newton, 17-3.

Scott Seeks to Regain PRA Lead

Herb Scott returns to "his" track Tuesday night in an effort to show he's still as much of a champ as last season when he took the title in the Pittsburgh Racing Assn.

While Scott has been having his troubles elsewhere on the PRA circuit, he's still king at Washington, having taken two of the four features run there.

Last week halfway through the feature, Scott was on the verge of passing Jack Steffen and Dick Linder, who finished 1-2 in the race, when his windshield shattered.

The Wexford driver fell back in the field but bravely finished the race despite the fact that his face was covered with slivers of glass.

Dick Linder currently is leading the point race. Point standings:

Dick Linder, 533; Herb Scott, 489; Ed Fiola, 361; Jack Steffen, 325; Lee Stover, 293.

Six Yankees Fined; Two May Be Traded

NEW YORK (UP) — Reports that two of the New York Yankees' "sinful six" would be traded before the June 15 deadline popped up again today along with a front office statement that all was harmonious between General Manager George Weiss and Field Manager Casey Stengel.

The report of friction in the Yankees' front office followed a disclosure Monday that six players — Mickey Mantle, Yogi Berra, Hank Bauer, Billy Martin, Whitey Ford and Johnny Kucks—had been fined a total of $5,500 for their night club antics on May 15.

Weiss, an astute judge of player talent best known for his lack of sentiment, declined at first to comment on the fines or his reported feud with Stengel, but later released a statement in which he said "reported friction between Stengel and myself is wholly untrue."

Minimizes Yank Troubles

However, Weiss' statement served to minimize the Yankees' troubles rather than clarify them, since most of the fined players felt Stengel did not recommend such stiff penalties but was overruled by Weiss.

Stengel, who huddled several times with Washington Senators troubleshooter Charlie Dressen during the past week end, was at a meeting which included the fined players, Weiss and co-owners Dan Topping and Del Webb about a week after the night club fracas when the players learned they would be assessed for their after hours carousing.

Deductions In Paychecks

However, neither Stengel nor the players knew how stiff the fines would be until the players, with the exception of Kucks, noticed a deduction for $1,000 from their bi-monthly paychecks last Saturday. Kucks, who doesn't earn anywhere near as much as the others, was fined $500.

The players most often mentioned as "trade bait" are Bauer and Martin, both of whom are coveted by Dressen. The Yankees, who dropped five of seven games during the last week to the Baltimore Orioles and Washington Senators, have never looked as bad since the World War II teams, and unless play picks up on the current 13-game Western trip, heads are expected to roll before the trading deadline.

MPSA Defeats ULBA, 12-6, in City Softball

MPSA pushed over six runs in the final inning to beat ULBA, 12-6, in City Softball League action last night.

Five hits and two errors provided the ingredients for the big rally. Chippy Hill's two-run double was the big blow.

Hill and Russell Bronson each had three hits for the winners, while Nick Puleo collected a brace of safeties for the losers.

Harrison Spencer tossed a five hitter for the winners, fanning ten batters in the process.

Pirates Edge Giants For Third Straight

PITTSBURGH (UP) — The agonizing margin of one run again proved the difference Monday night, as it has in eight of the last nine Pirate games.

The Bucs edged the New York Giants, 6-5, for their third straight victory and a tie with Chicago for seventh place in the National League.

The Bucs had to send four pitchers into the fray to guarantee the slim edge. The Giants required five hurlers, with John Margoneri (1-1) taking the loss.

Vernon Law started for the Bucs and batted home Hank Foiles in the second inning rally that gave him a three-run cushion. But he was ousted for Nelson King in the third who gave way, in turn, to Luis Arroyo in the sixth and Roy Face in the eighth. King took the credit for the victory, his first with one setback.

Foiles Hot

Foiles proved the margin in the Pirate bat attack. He batted in and scored in the second and fourth innings to personally account for four of the six Pittsburgh runs. The pitchers helped in the offensive, Law sending Foiles home in the second and King batting in Johnny O'Brien on a sacrifice bunt in the fifth.

Willie Mays scampered on the base paths and in center field to ice the Giants. He scored the first two Giant runs. In the sixth, he doubled and scored on Dusty Rhodes' single. In the eighth, he walked, stole second, his 17th steal in 24 attempts, took third on Daryl Spencer's single and scored on a pinch hit sacrifice fly by Ray Katt.

In the first inning, Mays raced back 440 feet to the base of the center field wall to stab a drive off the bat of Roberto Clemente. Two Buc runners on base had to go scampering back after the catch.

The Pirates open a three game series against the St. Louis Cardinals tonight with Bob Friend (3-5) scheduled to go for Pittsburgh against Willard Schmidt (4-1).

Rice Is Now Winning Track Titles in Africa

Airman 2-c. Arnold J. Rice, a former football and track star at Monessen High School, is still pretty fast on the cinder path.

Recently Rice placed first in both the 120 yard and 220 yard low hurdles in the Air Force championship meet in North Africa.

Representing Wheelues AFB, Rice streaked the high hurdles in 15.9 and the low hurdles in 25.5.

By placing first, he won the right to represent the North African Air Force bases in the European meet on June 28. That event will be held either in England or Germany.

Rice, who is attached to Air Force security, is the son of Mrs. Helen Little, of Monessen.

DOCTORING YOUR GOLF

By CARY MIDDLECOFF

Watch Waggle

Don't ignore the waggle. The waggle — little series of movements made after taking the stance and before starting the swing proper — probably looks quite meaningless to the non-golfer. But properly executed, it does a lot for your golf swing.

..The waggle is the swing in miniature. it gives you the "feel" of the shot you are about to make; sets up the tempo of your swing; and gives you a chance to check your grip, stance, and aim.

Waggle back and forth along the intended line of flight. If you waggle up and down — that is, pick the club up abruptly and put it back down behind the ball — you will pick the club up abruptly on the backswing. Your stroke will be more of a chop than swing.

Make the waggle smooth and free, yet firm and purposeful. Waggle your way to better golf.

Podres Turns Back Phillies, 4 to 0

Johnny Podres of the Brooklyn Dodgers, who claims he can "beat those blankety-blank Yankees any day of the week," is acting just as tough these days with the boys in his own National League backyard.

Released from the Navy last year because of a chronic back ailment, there was some question at the start of the current campaign whether the blond southpaw could recapture the form that baffled the Yankees in the 1955 World Series.

Podres admits his back still is troubling him but he's also giving the rival hitters a pain in the neck.

Proved Real Stopper

Dodger Manager Walt Alston, slightly alarmed over a budding four-game losing streak, called on Podres Monday night to face the surprising Philadelphia Phillies. Johnny proved to be a real "stopper" as he limited the Phillies to three measly singles in posting a 4-0 shutout victory.

Although he admitted afterward, "My arm got stiff in the fourth inning and I couldn't snap off my curve ball," Podres struck out nine men in posting his fourth shutout of the campaign and his fifth victory against two defeats.

Gil Hodges also had a big hand in the Dodgers' victory, which moved the defending N.L. champs into a third place tie with Milwaukee, three games back of pacesetting Cincinnati. The husky first baseman broke a scoreless tie with his sixth home run of the season in the fifth inning, tallied again in the seventh on Don Zimmer's two-out single and scored the Dodgers' final run in the ninth on a wild pitch by Philadelphia reliever Jim Hearn.

Cimoli Gets Homer

Gino Cimoli also homered for the Dodgers, who collected nine hits off loser Don Cardwell and Hearn. It was Cardwell's second setback against three victories.

In Monday's only other major league game, Hank Foiles drove in two runs with a triple and a single to give the Pittsburgh Pirates a 6-5 victory over the New York Giants. Eight of the Pirates' last nine games have been decided by one run.

The Pirates scored their decisive run in the fifth inning when Johnny O'Brien tripled and dashed home on a squeeze bunt by winning pitcher Nelson King. Joe Margoneri, the second of five New York pitchers, absorbed the loss.

Pitt's Joe Walton Willing to Listen to Big League Offers

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Jarrin' Joe Walton, Pitt's All-American football end, has a professional football contract tucked in his hip pocket but he's still open to offers from major league baseball clubs.

"Sure I'd have to give a lot of consideration to any baseball offer," the mild-mannered Walton admitted prior to working out with the New York Giants here last weekend.

"Of course I already have been drafted (No. 2) by the Washington Redskins and I am looking forward to playing football in the fall. But I still have an open ear to baseball offers," he went on.

Sets Record Straight

"But first I would like to set the record straight. A recent quote attributed to me about my playing baseball made it sound like I thought I was good enough to start right off in the majors. I didn't mean it that way. What I tried to say was that it would take a pretty good offer to entice me.

"When you love both football and baseball equally well as I do, it's pretty difficult to make a choice. I only wish I could play both sports professionally, but I guess that would be a little too rough," Joe said.

Walton, who made "everybody's" All-America team last season in his final year with the Pitt Panthers, broke off the conversation momentarily when Giant Manager Bill Rigney told him to "take a few swings."

Joe stepped up to the plate to face Ruben Gomez.

"Fast ball," Rigney shouted to Gomez from his perch behind the batting cage.

"Curve ball," instructed Rigney.

Walton sent the ball whistling into right field.

"Curve again," called the Giant manager.

Rigney Appears Impressed

Walton responded with a liner over second base.

Rigney and Walton then went into a huddle and it appeared the Giant boss was impressed.

Walton, of nearby Beaver Falls, Pa., closed out his college career as an outfielder for Pitt with a .350 batting average. Among his hits were eight homers.

Right now he's looking forward to playing for the College All Stars against the professional champion New York football Giants this August at Chicago.

"See what I mean about loving both sports," he said. "Here I am in a New York Giant baseball uniform talking about playing against the football Giants."

City Turners Are Third in Annual District Meet

Monessen Turners placed third in the annual Turnfest at McKeesport over the weekend.

Monongahela won the event. Rochester finished second, just a point ahead of Monessen.

Three members of the Monessen team won their respective divisions. However the locals simply didn't have the depth to accumulate enough team points to cop the annual gym meet.

Ann Diaz, Louise Zuraw and Jack Sterlise were tops in their divisions.

Blanche Peltzer was second. Patty Hobbs and Richard Yatchyshyn third and Matthew Valo fourth in their classes.

Other members of the Monessen team were Rosemarie Popp, Margaret Pankovich, Charles Mehalsick, Joe Galayda, Lloyd Griedon, Marvin Scales, Joan Giannini, Marian Bachinsky, Arlenne Popp and Carol Bruce.

John (Corky) DeMillion coached the Monessen team.

Syracuse Will Honor Brown

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (UP) — Jim Brown, a four-sport letterman and All-America in both football and lacrosse at Syracuse University, is scheduled to receive his bachelor's degree today and will be honored by the school at a dinner in New York Wednesday night.

Patterson Says There Will Be Kayo This Time

NEW YORK (UP) — "Somebody's sure goin' to get knocked out this time," young Floyd Patterson said today as he resumed training for his heavyweight title defense against Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson at the Polo Grounds July 2.

And the wink that accompanied his statement boded evil for challenger Tommy, who had lost a split 12-round decision to Patterson last June, before Floyd became champion.

Twenty-two-year-old Floyd returned to his camp at Greenwood Lake, N.Y., today as Emil Lence's new promotional organization established temporary quarters on West 5rd St. and swung into action.

Promoter Lence gave the green light to his outfit Monday by announcing the July 28 date, and the assurance of $175,000 from the NBC network and General Motors, the sponsor. In addition he predicted a gross gate of at least $600,000.

The champion will get 40 per cent of all net receipts; Jackson, 20 per cent.

The Patterson-Jackson fight will be televised and broadcast nationally to homes, although there will be a TV blackout on a 100-mile radius of the Polo Grounds.

Twenty-five-year-old Jackson, a 4-1 underdog, resumed training today at Stillman's Gymnasium; but he plans to shift to a country camp soon.

Sporstmen's Corner—

Find Novel Solution To End Bear Damage

State Game Protector Tom Meehan, of Wyoming County, has solved an interesting and unusual problem.

"In the five years I have been in this district, bears have raided and damaged wild turkey feeders and corn cribs," related Tom.

"We had the most trouble with the black rascals in late March and during April, when they came out of hibernation with a ravenous appetite and there was very little natural food available.

"Every spring hungry bears would tear out the sides or bottoms of corn cribs and feeders to get at the ear corn. Every fall we were obliged to repair this damage before beginning winter feeding. This is a large tract of Game Lands, and the time and expense required in making repairs in remote sectors were considerable.

"So, in mid-March this year, while there was still snow on the ground, we opened the door to our central supply crib in the wilderness area and secured it with heavy wire. Also, we removed the heavy wooden lids from turkey feeders in the vicinity.

"At least one feeder lid had been torn off by a bear that would not be denied the food inside. Since that time there has been no more damage because a bear could then obtain the corn it would have taken anyway, but without damaging these structures.

Obvious Solution

"This obvious solution to the problem was suggested to me one April day last year, when I drove across Game Lands 57 to inspect turkey feeders and luckily enjoyed a front seat at an unusual show. A bear weighing about 300 pounds ran away from the corn crib as the car approached. I sat still in the auto, close to the corn supply.

"The bear cautiously circled and returned to the crib in about 45 minutes. He ignored me and the automobile completely and went right to work. The big fellow effortlessly ripped several slats off the structure, hooked his claws into the exposed, heavy-guage, hardware cloth lining, pulled the mesh apart as though it were mosquito netting and pawed a pile of ear corn from the crib. Then he lay on the ground, about 15 feet from the car, and casually ate it from the circle made by his front paws and legs.

"After witnessing this convincing demonstration of Mr. Bruin's determination and bulldozer strength," said Meehan, "it seems there is little doubt our present 'open door policy' — joining 'em when you can't beat 'em — is the best policy."

Honor State Men—

Three Pennsylvanians — including an instructor at California State Teachers College — have won national recognition for their efforts in conservation education.

At the 1957 convention of the American Association for Conservation Education in Biloxi, Miss., the following men won awards of merit:

Professor John F. Lewis, of CSTC, "for his outstanding contribution to conservation education in Pennsylvania."

Robert G. Wingard, Wildlife Extension Specialist, Penn State, "for his outstanding conservation activities with 4-H clubs in Pennsylvania."

W. J. Patterson, teacher in New Castle High School, "for his outstanding contribution to the Future Farmer program in Pennsylvania."

Handy Guide—

A handy guide to modern camping and boating may be secured with the June issue of Field and Stream magazine.

A special 17 page supplement provides some of the do's and don't's as learned by many of the country's most experienced outdoorsmen.

Lazy Beavers—

"The beavers are spreading out in my district since 'Old Man Winter' lifted his restrictions," says Sullivan County Game Protector Paul Asper.

"Several times in the last month I observed that a beaver had constructed only a feed bed, and but a resemblance of a small nest had been made on the sunny side of a stream. Real easy living! When startled these flat tails could not use the deep water of a dam, or a beaver house, for hiding. They disappeared by hiding under the nearest cover, perhaps a rock or bank, or by entering a highway culvert."

Nuclear Tests Blasted By Two Geneticists

WASHINGTON (UP)—Two geneticists told Congress today that every time a nuclear test is held it increases the number of unborn children whose lives will be shortened or marred.

Dr. Herman J. Muller of the University of Indiana said the "number of lives that will be seriously curtailed or injured throughout the world in future generations as a result of the tests already held is in all probability in the hundreds of thousands or millions."

Dr. James F. Crow of the University of Wisconsin said "we can be sure several hundreds or thousands or tens of thousands or perhaps more persons will be diseased or deformed or will die prematurely or be otherwise impaired as a consequence of fallout if the present rates of testing continue."

Number Relatively Small

Both stressed in their prepared statements before the House-Senate Atomic Radiation Subcommittee that compared to other causes of death and injury including natural mutation the number is relatively small.

However, Muller called continuation of test explosions by East and West a "monstrous mistake of policy."

He said any nuclear war "even with present techniques would result in the cataclysmic ruination of humanity in general."

"The means of destruction are now so advanced on both sides that further advances by one side alone could not prevent this outcome," he said.

Radiation Going Up

Crow said the nuclear tests are steadily increasing the amount of radiation to which the world is exposed.

"The total harm to the population as measured by effects on future generations is strictly proportional to the total amount of radiation received by the reproductive cells of the population," he he said. "This means there is no such thing as a "safe" dose of radiation to the population."

"No increase in radiation for any reason should occur unless it offers some compensating benefit for mankind."

The Atomic Energy Commission has maintained that the amount of radiation resulting from fallout is far below the danger level.

Special Election

MADISON, Wis. (UP) — Gov Vernon Thomson of Wisconsin announced today that he'll call a special election to name a successor to the late Sen. Joseph McCarthy. He said he'll set a date by the end of this week.

NEW CLEANING HOUSE — This new straight-line cleaning house at Donora Steel & Wire Division's wire mill has a capacity of 26,000 tons per month. The line at the U. S Steel plant is one of the most modern in the wire manufacturing industry. With this facility in operation, 5,000 pounds of rods can be cleaned in acid, coated with borax, lime or sulphur, dried and baked in one continuous operation.

New Cleaning House For Plant in Donora

Another significant step in the present modernization program at Donora Steel & Wire Works of United States Steel's American Steel & Wire Division has been accomplished with the installation of a 26,000-ton per month straight-line cleaning house in the wire mill, U. F. Corsini, general superintendent, announced.

Corsini pointed out the new line replaces old equipment and modern facilities will produce higher quality wire products and thus strengthen Donora's position in the wire manufacturing industry.

Up-to-date innovations that make this facility unique include (1) The processing of 5,000 pounds of rods on each hanger, (2) use of a clock-card system for scheduling and recording production, (3) mechanical agitation of rods or wire while immersed in the acid solution, (4) use of twin heat exchangers to maintain a uniform temperature in each acid tank solution (5) a central control room that meters predetermined amounts of acid and processing supplies additions and maintains optimum operating temperatures in the various tanks, (6) continuous recirculation of the processing results and (7) flash drying of coated rods in minutes rather than hours.

All operations related to the freeing of scale and other foreign matter from rods to be drawn into regular or copper-coated wire are performed in a new, building 304 feet long, 39 feet wide and 28 feet high. High velocity exhaust fans, unit heaters and roof ports maintain comfortable working conditions by controlling the temperature, humidity and removal of acid fumes.

In addition, two, five-ton capacity gantry-type cleaning house cranes are equipped with forced-air fans to keep air circulating in the crane cabs.

Hot Springs National park which was established in Arkansas in 1832, was the first in America.

Graham Crusade Extended

NEW YORK (UP) — Billy Graham announced Monday night that his New York crusade has been so successful it will be extended through July 21 — three weeks beyond the original closing date.

The jubilant evangelist also told an enthusiastic Madison Square Garden crowd of 17,000 that he plans to preach his June 30 sermon in New York's Polo Grounds and his July 21 sermon in Yankee Stadium.

When Graham takes his revival into the open air he could preach to 52,000 persons at once in the Polo Grounds, home of the New York Giants, and to 67,000 in the home grounds of the champion Yankees.

Expenses Are High

The crusade's executive committee had planned originally to run the revival 6½ weeks, at a cost of nearly $900,000. Committee chairman Roger Hull said Monday night the extension will cost at least $55,000 a week and could run total expenses for the crusade over 1 million dollars.

The crusade is being paid for by subscriptions of member churches of the Protestant Council of New York and hundreds of individuals and businesses, as well as nightly offerings in the Garden.

Hull indicated the committee may extend the revival even beyond July 21, depending on finances and on whether New Yorkers continue to fill Madison Square Garden to near-capacity, as has been the case so far.

Attended By Thousands

An estimated 357,000 persons have attended Graham's sermons since they started 20 days ago. As of Monday night, when 501 persons made "decisions for Christ" 12,145 "decisions" have been recorded.

The Rev. Walter Smyth, a Graham "team" member responsible for delegation reservations, said "there has bee nso much increased interest of delegations from churches in the New York area—an interest we really didn't anticipate—that we are convinced we can keep the Garden full through July 21."

About 8,000 seats are reserved for delegations nightly. All seats are free.

Runs TV Quiz Show Winnings Up to $92,500

NEW YORK (UP)—A 28-year-old public relations adviser ran his quiz show earnings to $92,500 Monday night on the NBC television program "Twenty-One."

His ability to identify Ghana Prime Minister Kwame Nkrumah proved decisive for Hank Bloomgarden in a rematch with artist James Snodgrass. The 31-year-old artist kept aplce of Bloomgarden in the Shakespeare American Revolutionary War and quotations categories Monday night, but was unable to identify Nkrumah in the political leaders category.

Two weeks ago following a series of ties Bloomgarden was adjudged the winner over Snodgrass when, in the "vertebrae category" the artist gave "sacrum" as the answer to a question about the spine. Bloomgarden meanwhile answered "sacral" and was judged the winner.

A storm of protest including objections by many medical experts, prompted a review of the decision. Ultimately, a tribunal of Encyclopedia Britannica experts resulted in a rematch.

In the rematch Bloomgarden was guaranteed $52,000 which he had earned on the show. Ordinarily, a contestant has to stake his entire winnings in future contests.

Bloomgarden like Snodgrass a New Yorker, returns to the show next week to decide whether to try to increase his winnings or pocket his $92,500.

More Flu Victims Reported in Orient

MANILA (UP)—Filipino doctors urged the health department today to declare a national state of emergency because of the spreading influenza epidemic that has taken 548 lives, 34 of them Monday.

Health officials said 22,631 new influenza victims were reported Monday and that more than 300,000 Filipinos have been stricken since the disease began sweeping the Orient.

The state of emergency would clamp strict quarantine measures on travelers.

Crude Oil Stocks

WASHINGTON (UP)—Crude oil stocks totalled 265,461,000 barrels for the week ended May 25, an increase of 1,165,000 barrels from the previous week, the Bureau of Mines reported today.

Harvard Really Has Problem

WASHINGTON (UP)— Harvard University is stuck with a vast pile of secret wartime research documents which it can't give back to the government, can't burn and can't even look at.

The university's Widener Library has been trying for 10 years to get the documents declassified and get rid of many of them, only to be thwarted by government red tape.

So the university took its case to Rep. John Moss (D-Calif.), chairman of the House Government Operations Subcommittee. Moss said he has asked Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson to come to Harvard's aid.

Moss said Sunday night some of the papers probably have been declassified since that time. The only trouble is, no one at Harvard has the necessary government clearance to inspect the documents and sort them.

And it is costing the university $1,200 a year just to store the papers, which take up 7,000 square feet of badly-needed library space.

Thus, Moss said, Harvard finds itself required to store and protect papers "which no one at Harvard can look at, and which Harvard can't get declassified, can't return to the government, can't give away and can't burn."

At the same time, scholars and scientists who would like to study the documents find them "padlocked beyond their reach."

Third Nuclear Test Delayed

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UP) — The Atomic Energy Commission today called an operational postponement of the third nuclear test in the AEC's extensive spring-summer series.

Weather conditions this morning favored the detonation of a device equal to 10,000 tons of TNT, but scientists said several key associated experiments were not ready in time.

The device was to have been carried aloft by a captive balloon anchored by four wires and exploded at 500 feet.

Two safety devices which would have burned a hole in the balloon or split its seams were designed to avoid the "one in a million" chance that the aerial platform would break free of its moorings, the AEC said.

3 Memorials

In loving memory of our dear husband and father, Matthew Chuk who died three years ago today, June 4 1954.
You are not forgotten loved one.
Nor will you ever be
As long as life and memory last
We shall remember thee.
We miss you now, our hearts are sore,
As time goes on we miss you more.
Your loving smile, your gentle face.
No one can fill your vacant place.

Dairy Drivers Vote to Accept New Contract

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Western Pennsylvania dairy drivers and plant employes have voted to accept a new two-year wage contract and a four-year pension plan.

The agreements cover 3,000 workers at 65 member firms of the Greater Pittsburgh Dairy Industry Assn. The dairies serve an 11-county area.

By voice vote Monday night, Milk and Ice Cream Workers Local 205 voted to accept a wage pact providing for an immediate 10 cents an hour wage increase and nine cents an hour additional next year. Cost-of-living increases also were provided. A new pension plan increases company contributions from $1.50 to $2.25 a month.

The local had voted last May 6 to go on strike if necessary to enforce contract demands, but no strike date ever was set.

Tomahawk Tool of An Indian's Trade

NEW YORK (UP)—Police arrested an Indian for disorderly conduct when they spotted a tomahawk dangling from his belt.

But the Indian, William W. Martin, 48, convinced authorities Monday he was not on the warpath.

He was acquitted of the charge after he explained that the little hatchet was a tool of his trade. He's a pineapple crater.

Steelworkers to Meet Next Week

PITTSBURGH (UP)—The United Steelworkers announced today the union's Wage Policy Committee will meet in Washington June 11 and 12 to set negotiating goals for 196,000 workers covered by wage agreements expiring this year.

The International Executive Board will meet prior to the first session of the policy committee.

While the bulk of the union's 1,200,000 members are covered by three-year agreements signed following last summer's 56-day steel strike, USW President David J. McDonald said about 1200 contracts with fabricators and other smaller firms are open for negotiation this year.

Churchmen in Pennsylvania have marked off the third week in June for the 19th annual Conference for Town and Country Pastors at Pennsylvania State University.

The theme this year for the pastors and their wives will be "Ministering In a New Rural Society." The conference opens Monday, June 17 and runs through Friday, June 21.

Long weeks of preparation resulted in an outstanding program. The general lecturer will be Dr. Henry Grady Davis of the Chicago Theological Seminary, a nationally known author in the field of religion.

The keynote speaker will be Dr. Wesley A. Hotchkiss, director of the Department of Town and Country Church of the Congregational-Christian Churches. Dr. Alfred C. Bartholomew, professor of rural church work at the Evangelical and Reformed Theological Seminary at Lancaster will be the devotional leader.

Highlights

The evening programs begin with a banquet Monday night, the opening night of the convention, and will be marked by a discussion on recent discoveries in the Middle East.

The banquet speaker will be Dr. Frederick R. Matson, professor of archeology at Penn State University. Rural church development awards also will be made at the banquet.

The Tuesday speaker, June 18, will be Dr. Walter W. Wilcox, nationally known agricultural economist whose topic will be "Social Responsibilities of the Individual in Organized Society."

Dr. William G. Mather, head of the department of sociology and former conference chairman will be the Wednesday night speaker, discussing accidents to rural persons in Pennsylvania.

The traditional church service Thursday will be marked by a sermon by Dr. Luthern H. Harshberger, the University chaplain. The service will be held at the new Helen Eakin Eisenhower chapel on the campus.

Safety Chairman

The appointment of State Secretary of Agriculture William L. Henning as chairman of the farm safety for Pennsylvania's observance of National Farm Safety Week was announced this past week.

Pennsylvania will join the nation in the observance of Farm Safety Week July 21-27. Henning will be in charge of promoting and coordinating the state program designed to reduce farm accidents.

J. Hansell French, president of the Pennsylvania Rural Safety Council, said the Pennsylvania observance will be coordinated by the Farm and Home Safety Division of the State Department of Public Instruction.

Farm Safety Week, observed annually, is geared to call attention of farmers and rural homemakers to the necessity of better safety provisions on the farm and in the home. The time is set for the period of the year when stepped-up farm activities have farmers working with more machinery in the fields.

How to Get on the '$64,000' TV Show

(Second of a series. A prospective contestant's journey through The Mill at "The $64,000 Question".)

By WILLIAM EWALD

NEW YORK (UP) — Ralph Carpenter is the kind of man who would rather read a map than a book.

He devours atlases, chews up charts.

A seed salesman and former farmer, the 70-year-old Carpenter also harbors a yen: He'd like to land a berth on "The $64,000 Question."

Back on Nov. 24, Carpenter, a citizen of Miami, Fla., wrote a three-page letter to the producers of the CBS-TV giveaway. That letter caught the fancy of one of the four girls who sift through the 5,000 to 10,000 missiles that pour each week into the swank penthouse offices of Entertainment Productions Inc., packagers of the show.

Carpenter wisely sent in three snapshots of himself. "I'm a typical Southern hillbilly," he said in his letter.

That single line sold him.

Sent Standard Form

Carpenter next got a phone call letter" —a standard form that E. P. I. uses as a follow-up. He was one of more than 500 prospects that week to receive the Jones form. He was asked to describe himself, his job, his family and furnish three references.

Usually, about 40 per cent survive this stage. Carpenter was one of them.

Carpenter net xgot a phone call from a girl at E.P.I. in which a preliminary judgment of his voice quality, his ease and his knowledge of georgraphy was made.

A flurry of communications followed. E. P. I. also sent one of its staff, Evelyn Levin, to Miami to talk to Carpenter and his neighbors. She reported back:

"Charming...a great guy."

Carpenter was brought to New York, lodged at a medium bracket hotel and given meal money, meal allotments usually figure out to about $22.50 for a three-day stay). He was one of about a dozen that week to reach this stage.

A row of cubicles adorn the top floor of the duplex suite that E.P.I. occupies on Madison Ave. Carpenter was led into a cubicle.

He was grilled for about a half-hour by an assistant, Roselle Barnhard.

Looked Pretty Good

Carpenter looked pretty good. Mert Koplin, producer of the show, was advised by phone to come up and sit in. The questioning went on.

Koplin chinned with Carpenter. Carpenter said he had been married 34 years, had two sons, one a grad of Annapolis.

Koplin then led Carpenter downstairs into the roomy office of Harry Fleischman, president of E. P. I., for an informal chat. Steve Carlin, executive producer, also came in.

This was his real test.

Fleischman, Carlin and Koplin are the trio who make the final decision on every contestant.

Carpenter proved garrulous during the 15-minute session. Too garrulous. He talked. And talked. And talked.

He was dismissed and the big three began an appraisal. The decision—okay on knowledge, personality doubtful.

Carpenter was sent home and told to wait.

He may have a long wait. His folder is now one of hundreds in the deep freeze file.

Your Health—

Friend's Pet Remedies Won't Cure Head Colds

By H. N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

Beware of well-meaning friends who offer unsound medical advice.

At no time are you more vulnerable to these suggestions of special home remedies than when you have a cold.

For example, whenever you get a sniffle or let loose with a sneeze, someone is bound to suggest, "Take a good stiff drink tonight before you go to bed."

Many persons quickly seize upon such an idea with relish. Granted, a stiff drink or two will give a person a feeling of well being, but does it have any actual medical value as far as the cold is concerned?

Let's look at the facts.

A cold, it is generally conceded, is a virus disease. Taken internally, alcohol will not kill any infection, virus or otherwise.

A drink of liquor, however, does raise your internal temperature somewhat. By dilating the blood vessels in your mucous membranes and skin, it brings a feeling of warmth to the chilled surface of the skin.

In this way, it might actually make you a bit more comfortable.

Yet, too much alcohol can make you more uncomfortable than would the cold alone. Dilating the membranes of your nose too much only adds to the congestion and makes it more difficult to breathe.

All in all, a small amount of alcohol does have a limited value in making a cold victim feel a little better.

But it will not stop your cold, it will not even shorten its duration.

One more thing. If you do decide to take a nip to ease your cold suffering, make sure you do it at home. The best place for anyone with a cold is in bed. But you don't want to wind up there as the result of an auto accident caused by a bit of imbibing to "help" your cold.

Cole Porter's Start In Theatre Notable

Cole Porter, whose music and lyrics are one of the delights of "Silk Stockings," musical comedy hit which brings Dolores Gray to Pitt Stadium for Civic Light Opera the week of June 24, had an inauspicious start in the theatre.

In 1918, Cole and another Yale lad, Lawson Riggs, flushed with the success of campus productions, assembled a show called "See America First," which they were confident would wow Broadway. It didn't. The critics were so severe that Porter and Riggs went into hiding at the Yale Club and didn't emerge for three weeks.

When they did come out, Riggs went into the priesthood and Porter shipped for France to join the Foreign Legion. Fortunately, Porter came home in 1919 with words and music for "Hitchy-Koo," which became an immediate hit, and for more than 40 years has been turning out one notable entertainment after another, including "Fifty million Frenchmen," "Anything Goes," "DuBarry Was a Lady," "Panama Hattie," "Kiss Me, Kate," "Can-Can" and, of course, "Silk Stockings."

Satirical targets in "Silk Stockings" range from stolid Soviet agents lost in Paris to a carefree agent of the Hollywood ten-per-center variety (played by Lawrence Brooks), from an earnest Russian composer to a water-logged movie mermaid.

Following "Silk Stockings," Lois Hunt will appear in "The Great Waltz," with Terry Saunders and William Shirley; John Raitt will star in "Pajama Game," with Neile Adams and Patricia Marand, July 8 through 13, and he will stay over for "Carousel," with Margot Moser, July 15 through 20; Gretchen Wyler will appear in "Damn Yankees," with Robert Smith and Terry Saunders, July 22 through 27, and Florence Hunderson will star in "Fanny," in the role she originated, with John Brownlee and Edwin Steffe, July 29 through August 3.

Midway Battle Just 15 Years Ago

By PATRICK J. KILLEN

MIDWAY ISLAND (UP) — Fifteen years ago today a confident Japanese armada, bent on invading this tiny North Pacific island, kept a disastrous date with destiny.

Before the day was over, four Japanese aircraft carriers were mortally wounded and American commanders had won the first clear-cut naval victory in the Pacific.

Historians agree the battle of Midway was a major turning point of World War II. It gave the United States control of the central Pacific and deprived Japan of the opportunity of establishing an air and submarine base only 1,100 miles northwest of Pearl Harbor.

Today Midway is a bird sanctuary with a 40 million dollar military future. Presently a foreign airstrip surrounded by gooney birds, military strategists have designated Midway as the southwest anchor of the Distant Early Warning Line.

So within the next few months transports jammed with radar equipment will fly here daily from the Aleutians and back.

But a visit to Midway now brings foremost the glories of that battle 15 years ago.

After hours of waiting, victory came swiftly on the morning of June 4, 1942. But many of the heroes of Midway died believing they had suffered defeat. Three torpedo squadrons of 41 planes from the carriers Hornet, Yorktown and Enterprise kicked off the attack and by 10 a.m. 35 had been shot down!

But those gallant airmen prevented the Japanese from launching a large air force of their own and pulled the Nippon combat air patrol planes down close to the water line. Minutes later, carrier-based American dive bombers moved in with a shower of death.

At 10:47 a.m., the Japanese flattop Akagi, flagship for the sneak attack on Pearl Harbor, was abandoned. The carrier Kaga was engulfed in flames. Three 1,000 pound bombs smashed the flight deck of the carrier Soryu.

Another Japanese carrier, the Hiryu, escaped annihilation and her escape proved costly. Bombers from the Hiryu screamed in on the Yorktown that afternoon and knocked her out of commission. The Yorktown sank June 7 after lying dead in the water and abandoned for 64 hours. But the Hiryu's victory was short-lived. She made her death plunge later when U.S. dive bombers scored four direct hits.

Britain Ready To Cut Bomb Tests in Half

LONDON (UP) — Britain is ready to cut its hydrogen bomb tests by half in the face of mounting public opinion against further nuclear tests in the South Pacific, well-informed sources said today.

The sources said no more hydrogen bombs would be dropped in the testing area near Christmas Island in the Pacific after the third explosion scheduled for some time this week.

British scientists reported that the two bombs dropped so far have been completely successful and that one more test will be sufficient to enable the data collected so far to be checked.

It was understood the original schedule called for at least six tests.

The government of Prime Minister Harold Macmillan was believed anxious to score a political victory by heeding public opinion and calling off the remaining blasts, doubly so with reassurance by scientists no further tests are necessary.

Public opinion has mobilized against the tests both in Britain and abroad despite scientists' assertions that there has been little or no radioactive fallout from them and that the risk of radiation poisoning is almost nonexistent.

Former Valley Teacher Gets $6,000 in Funds

Eleanor B. Brown, a native of Charleroi and former Jeannette High School teacher, has received $6,000 in scholarship funds — the highest grant in Sacramento's school history.

Miss Brown received $2,500 from Delta Kappa Gamma, national honorary for women in education; $1,500 from Delta Kappa Gamma's state organization and a $2,000 fellowship from Pennsylvania State University.

The awards won by Miss Brown were on a competitive basis. She has been a teacher of business subjects at Sacramento Senior High School since 1948 and chairman of the business department since 1954.

Miss Brown's father, the late Christopher Brown, was a glass company executive in Ford City at the time of his retirement.
